2025 Convention

On behalf of the ADS Officers and Board of Directors, welcome to Texas and the 2025 ADS Convention.

This year's convention brings over 250 industry leaders together for networking and industry education. Immediately following the ADS event, the Heavy Duty Aftermarket Week event will feature thousands of industry professionals to build relationships with.

Our keynote speaker, Jeremy Poincenot, is an extraordinary figure, not just as a renowned keynote speaker but also as a world champion in blind golf. Jeremy's speaking topics often revolve around turning trauma into triumph, the power of interdependence, and seeing challenges as opportunities for growth.

None of this happens without scores of volunteers and some very special sponsors. I would like to thank all of the generous sponsors that are highlighted within this guide.

Thank you for being a member of ADS. Have a great convention.

Scott D. Parker, CEO
Association of Diesel Specialists

Diesel engines are renowned for their durability, thanks to their robust design, components, and fuel. This longevity makes them ideal candidates for remanufacturing. In fact, ADS members have been remanufacturing diesel engines and components for decades—long before it became a mainstream trend. Today, the quality, affordability, and sustainability benefits of remanufactured goods are gaining recognition among governments, businesses, and consumers alike. Remanufacturers can achieve remarkable efficiency, using 85–95 percent less energy and materials per unit compared to manufacturing new equipment—all because of the retained value in reused components. John Chalifoux, a leading voice in the remanufacturing community, will share insights into his latest initiatives to elevate the visibility of remanufacturing. He'll also provide actionable strategies for ADS members to incorporate positive messaging about remanufacturing in their marketing efforts, helping them to grow their businesses while championing sustainability.

Navigating the Energy Transition: Cummins Perspective on The Future of the Internal Combustion Engine - High Plains
Trevor Anderson, OEM Service Support Segment, Cummins

A few years ago, a fellow panelist alongside Jennifer Rumsey now Cummins CEO insinuated on stage "...There is no place for a company like Cummins and their products in a clean energy future...". With all the talk about the realities of climate change and a decarbonized future, you could be forgiven for thinking the end is near for the heavy-duty and industrial diesel engine. So, is diesel or internal combustion engine dead? Not according to Cummins. Cummins is spending more today on diesel engine R&D than at any other time in its 100-year history. This session will provide members with insights on how Cummins views the energy transition near term and long term. We will discuss Cummins view of an energy diverse future where a broad portfolio of power options will be offered including clean diesel, various internal combustion powertrains and hybrids/bridge solutions.
